

INVITATION:

A HUMAN RIGHTS BASED APPROACH TO CLIMATE ACTION- WHAT ACCOUNTABILITY FOR EU'S CLIMATE FINANCE CONTRIBUTIONS?

Tuesday 24 March 2015 from 12:00 to 14:30

European Parliament - Room 5 E1

AN EVENT KINDLY HOSTED BY:

Heidi HAUTALA, Greens/EFA

Jo LEINEN, S&D

Eleonora EVI, EFD Group

Ignazio CORRAO, EFD Group

2015 marks an important year that will culminate with the adoption of a new set of sustainable development goals and an international climate treaty to replace the Kyoto Protocol. At the UNFCCC negotiations in February 2015 the Geneva Pledge, an initiative to better understand the connection between human rights and climate change, was launched. This upcoming lunch debate builds on the momentum of the need to protect human rights and the discussions around the accountability of climate finance and aims to discuss this important topic for the first time from a European perspective.

Experience with climate finance projects to date have shown a policy gap that protects human rights in all climate actions. For example, the Santa Rita hydroelectric dam in Guatemala, co-funded by the Dutch and German development banks as well as by the World Bank was approved by the UN's offsetting mechanism despite violent conflicts between the indigenous Q'eqchi' and Poqomchi' communities.

At the occasion of the event, experts will discuss the role of human rights in climate actions, the accountability of companies involved in mobilising private finance and the role the EU's Strategic Framework on Human Rights and Democracy can play to advance a human rights based approach in a future climate treaty.

Programme:

12.00 Sandwich lunch

12.30 Opening remarks, MEP Heidi Hautala

12:40 Experience with the UN's approved Santa Rita hydroelectric dam, Maximo Ba Tiul, Council of Peoples of Tezulutlan, Guatemala

12.55 Views towards a Paris climate deal, European Commission (tbc)

13:10 The role of UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights & climate change, Denise Auclair, CIDSE

13:25 Synthesizing opportunities for a human rights based approach towards a global climate treaty, Eva Filzmoser, Carbon Market Watch

13:40 Discussion, Q&A, moderated by MEP Ignazio Corrao

14:15 Closing remarks, MEP Eleonora Evi

Please note: Due to current security measures, only a limited number of non-permanent badge holders are allowed to visit the European Parliament. When filling in the online registration system, please indicate if you need a visitor badge. Please register here.

For further enquiries please contact juliane.voigt@carbonmarketwatch.org